HSE, Security and Training Contractor Services

A Flexible Staffing Solution

Sustainability can provide qualified HSE professionals with extensive risk management knowledge and experience for short, mid, long term and peak period assignments.

With a commitment to providing results and answers, our professionals are skilled in a wide range of national and international settings including oil and gas, mining, construction and heavy industry.

As well as possessing an exceptionally strong technical skill set, Sustainability HSE professionals fully understand the commercial realities faced by business in today's 'just in time' climate, and are well able to develop strategies and responses that meet these challenges head on.

Able to mobilise quickly to site and work in adverse and inhospitable locations, our HSE people are well known for their ability to hit the ground running and provide quick analysis and turnaround.

Why Sustainability

The needs for legislative compliance and robust HSE policies, the demands of production deadlines, and the lack of readily available qualified staff can sometimes combine to create a 'perfect storm' for companies operating on the ground.

Our people recognise these quandaries and provide you with versatile and sensible real world experience to navigate these successfully.

Snapshot examples of the individual contributions our senior HSE professionals can bring to your team include:

- 20 years risk management, safety, and environmental management in the mining, heavy industry, utilities, finance and environmental NGO sectors across Asia and Australia, targeting the development and implementation of organisational management systems and performance standards.
- 20 years in the upstream oil and gas industry developing and implementing management and information systems for HSE, community relations, crisis and emergency response planning, and occupational health and project HSE planning.
- 20 years in safety, training and operational roles, successfully developing, implementing and supervising safe operations and training in isolated and hostile environments including Iraq, Afghanistan and Papua New Guinea.
- 20 years specialising in safety, emergency response and security, including risk assessment, asset protection, overseas emergency evacuation, venue security, close personal protection, tactical policing and hostage rescue, maritime and port security, and investigation and pre-deployment briefings.

What we do

From Advisor through to Senior Project Leader roles, our personnel help you to:

- Operate and maintain site HSE systems.
- Administer, and support implementation of safety management systems and procedures on site.
- Improve existing management systems to conform to the relevant AS/ISO standards.
- Develop and implement focused action plans including reviewing and redrafting of standard operating procedures.
- Facilitate the development, implementation, and integration of quality, OHS, security, and environmental management systems.
